readme

Added Features:

- Changed the background color, text color, and font of several different components to more resemble the Facebook interface
- Instead of displaying the profile within the compact space of the JFrame, profile Images are displayed in JOptionPanes.

Problems:

- Although the program can read and write the data of individual profiles, and therefore save that data between runs, it cannot save the friends list. This means that with each new run of the program, node connections are not maintained.
